Chief Warns of Crime Trend

Ramsey: Criminals are going where the money is in D.C.

WASHINGTON | A wave of violent crime sweeping across downtown Washington, the Mall and other areas once considered safe is due in part to a growing trend among criminals to go where the money is, D.C. Police Chief Charles H. Ramsey said Wednesday.

Whereas criminals once stuck within a mile of their homes when they set out for a night of robbery and burglary, Ramsey said arrest patterns now show a "trend where more and more people are being arrested in neighborhoods they do not live in."

Ramsey said Washington's rapid economic growth means "more people are coming into the city and different areas are being populated. And criminals are aware of that."

Ramsey made his comments during Mayor Anthony A. Williams' weekly news conference at the John A. Wilson Building — a day after six people were robbed on the Mall in two separate incidents late Tuesday night. In one of the incidents, a woman also was sexually assaulted, U.S. Park Police said.

Earlier Tuesday, Ramsey reacted to a recent surge in homicides by declaring a "crime emergency," a move that gives him the freedom to quickly adjust officers' schedules and restrict their days off.

Fourteen people have been killed since July 1 in the District, in all quadrants of the city. LORI MONTGOMERY (THE WASHINGTON POST)

Israel Enters Lebanon Over 'Act of War'

PROMOTIONS | Worth Its Weight in Goal A chain of Italian electronics stores will lose $12 million after a promotional campaign offering customers who purchased new televisions coupons equal in value to the cost of the TV if Italy won the World Cup.

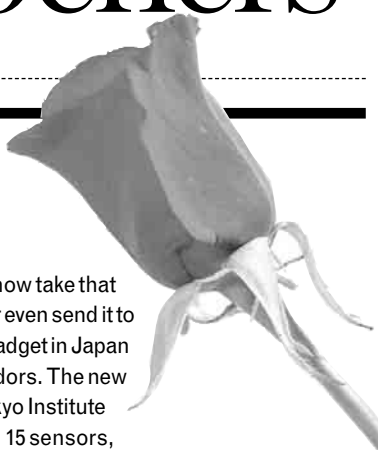

Sales at Mediaworld had jumped 30 percent during the promotion; now, some 10,000 people are eligible for free goods. The company said it will be able to honor all the coupons because it took out insurance in case of an Italy victory. (AP) EyeOpeners | Page 2

TECHNOLOGY

Download It to Your iScents

People stopping to smell the roses can now take that sweet floral fragrance home with them, or even send it to a faraway grandmother, thanks to a new gadget in Japan that records and replicates the world's odors. The new device, developed by scientists at the Tokyo Institute of Technology, analyzes smells through 15 sensors, records the odor's recipe in digital format and then reproduces the scent by mixing 96 chemicals and vaporizing the result. Creator Takamichi Nakamoto said the technology will have applications in the food and fragrance industries, where companies want to replicate odors. (AP)

ACCOMMODATIONS

Light Up the Skies

A new airline only for smokers is set to make its first flight in March, the Sydney Morning Herald reported. Smintair hopes to attract customers from Asian business travelers and European smokers to its jumbo jets, which will hold 30 first-class and 108 business-class seats. Passengers will have access to televisions, DVDs, gourmet food — and, of course, ashtrays. "Allowing our guests to smoke is one of the freedoms we are happily prepared to grant," the company says, adding that outside air is circulated in to refresh non-smokers. (EXPRESS)

Wool Riding

Bull-riding is like anything else: You gotta start somewhere, as Sawyer Roberson — who hung on while competing in the Mutton Bustin division of the Mountain States Junior Bull Riding competition — is learning. The event Tuesday was part of Laramie Jubilee Days, at the Albany County Fairgrounds in Laramie, Wyo. Adults who are scared of being gored may want to wait for some town to start up a Pamplona-style "Running of the Sheep." (EXPRESS)

MOBILE HOMES

Must Admit, It Does Have a Sweet Awning

A Jasper County, S.C., mobile home worth $26,200 was mistakenly listed by the county as being worth $262 million — throwing the entire county budget out of balance, the State reported. The County Council had overestimated by $2.5 million the amount of property tax it would receive because of the mistake;

now the county will have to raise property taxes to make up for the shortfall. "I can understand errors, but I don't understand errors of that magnitude," County Council Chairman George Hood said. (EXPRESS)

Do You Continue to Be Depressed?

The NIMH is conducting a study to test the effectiveness of AMPAkine in major depression. This study examines a different mechanism of action from commonly used antidepressants. Our hope is to find new medications for individuals who have not responded to past treatment.

This is a 10-week outpatient and inpatient study of medication or placebo conducted at the NIH Clinical Center in Bethesda, Maryland.

Participants must:

- Be ages 21-55 • Be currently depressed
- Have taken an antidepressant that did not help

The study includes medical and psychiatric evaluations, and research medication at no cost. Transportation reimbursement provided.

ROME, GA. State Judge Blocks Voter ID Enforcement for Elections

The same federal judge who threw out Georgia's voter ID law last year blocked the state Wednesday from enforcing its revised law during this year's elections. The ruling came less than two hours after the Georgia Supreme Court denied the state's emergency request to overrule a state court order that blocked enforcement of the new photo ID law during next week's primary elections and any runoffs. LUCASVILLE, OHIO State Begins Carrying Out New Execution Procedures

A man who shot his wife to death was executed Wednesday, the first Ohio inmate put to death using new injection guidelines adopted because the last execution was plagued with problems. Rocky Barton was closely examined several times for suitable injection sites before he died. The state's lethal injection protocol was changed after the execution of Joseph Clark in May, which was held up 90 minutes when prison staff struggled to find a viable vein and one they used collapsed. Discovery Astronauts Test Repairs

In its final spacewalk, shuttle crew practices patches to heat shield

HOUSTON | Two spacewalkers sheepishly lost a spatula in orbit Wednesday. But NASA engineers didn't mind much, because the two accomplished their main task of testing a method to apply emergency patches to a shuttle heat shield — and then some.

Discovery spacewalkers Piers Sellers and Michael Fossum improved on the method of applying a special mixture to repair the reinforced carbon leading edges of a space shuttle, using mock-ups in a suitcase.

A crack allowed fiery gases to penetrate space shuttle Columbia's reinforced carbon wing during re-entry to Earth's atmosphere in 2003, destroying that shuttle and killing its seven astronauts.

The same peanut butter-like repair goo was used a year ago in a first test of the system, with mixed results. That test produced many bubbles that could allow killer heat to penetrate on re-entry. This time, initial results showed that some bubbles formed, but they didn't join to become big, dangerous ones, said lead spacewalk officer Tomas Gonzalez-Torres.

The entire crew of Discovery will get a day off Thursday before starting to wind up the mission, undocking from the international space station on Saturday and planning to return to Earth on Monday. SETH BORENSTEIN (AP)

FDA Clears Once-Daily HIV/AIDS Pill

'Cocktail' medication combines 3 drugs for easier treatment plan

WASHINGTON | People infected with the virus that causes AIDS will soon be able to take a once-a-day pill that combines three drugs in a "cocktail" therapy that can be swallowed in a single dose.

The pill, called Atripla, includes three Food and Drug Administration-approved medicines that already form one of the most widely prescribed treatments for HIV and AIDS. The FDA approved the combination version Wednesday.

The medicine will still be expensive: more than $1,100 for a month's supply.

Atripla can replace the two or more pills HIV-positive patients now must take each day to keep the human immunodeficiency virus in check, making it simpler to stick to a treatment regimen. The new pill is expected to be available within seven business days.

If the single pill does help patients stick to their pill-taking regimen, that in turn could slow the emergence — and ultimately, transmission — of drug-resistant strains of the virus. Those strains can evolve when patients take less than 95 percent of their pills, said John Martin, head of Gilead Sciences Inc., the manufacturer of two of the drugs in Atripla.

"The fewer pills, the better they are able to achieve that 95 percent threshold," Martin said.

Skakel Appeals Conviction to Supreme Court

STAMFORD, CONN. | Attorneys for Kennedy cousin Michael Skakel filed a petition Wednesday asking the U.S. Supreme Court to overturn his murder conviction, saying his due process rights were violated because a statute of limitations had expired.

Skakel, 45, is serving 20 years to life for his 2002 conviction in the 1975 beating death of his Greenwich neighbor, Martha Moxley, when the two were teenagers. (AP)

City Reviews Big Dig Death

Entire Boston transit system under scrutiny after tunnel collapse

BOSTON | The head of the agency overseeing Boston's Big Dig highway project ordered a review of the entire metro highway system Wednesday after investigators looking into the fatal collapse of concrete ceiling slabs found 60 more questionable areas inside the same tunnel.

Initial inspections revealed dozens of signs of bolts loosening and other potential failures in the east-bound connector tunnel, Turnpike Authority officials and the Big Dig project manager said.

"We're evaluating each of these individual sites," Massachusetts Turnpike Authority Chairman Matthew Amorello said. "The tunnel system is safe."

There had been plans to reopen the connector tunnel Wednesday, but Amorello said it would remain closed indefinitely to ensure safety.

TUNNEL FIX: Men work inside the I-90 connector tunnel in Boston on Wednesday near where falling concrete ceiling panels killed a woman in a car on Monday night.

Twelve tons of concrete ceiling panels in the tunnel crashed down late Monday night, crushing a car and killing a 38-year-old woman inside. Her husband barely escaped by crawling through a window.

The woman's death could also lead to charges of negligent homicide, said Massachusetts Attorney General Tom Reilly, who is treating the accident site as a crime scene.

Mass. Delays Debate On Gay Marriage Ban

Proposed amendment would end practice in only state allowing it

BOSTON | Massachusetts lawmakers ended debate on proposed constitutional amendments Wednesday before dealing with the most volatile issue on their agenda: a proposal to outlaw gay marriage in the only state where it is legal.

The move to recess until Nov. 9 put off the decision on the politically charged issue until after the general election.

Senate President Robert Travaglini had said he intended to bring all 20 proposed amendments to a vote, but had warned lawmakers might not be able to get to every proposed amendment on Wednesday.

The goal of the gay marriage amendment, which supporters hope to put on the 2008 ballot, would be to block future gay marriages in Massachusetts. More than 8,000 same-sex couples have taken vows since gay marriages began in May 2004.

To get on the ballot, the question must twice win the backing of 25 percent — or 50 — of the state's 200 lawmakers: once during the current session and again during the session starting in January. Opponents of gay marriage have said they are confident they have the votes they need in the Democrat-controlled Legislature.

Crowds of gay marriage supporters and foes packed the balcony of the House chamber. Hundreds on both sides of the debate also rallied outside the Statehouse, holding signs, waving banners, singing and urging passing motorists to honk in support of their cause.

Army to End Deal With Halliburton For Iraq Services

WASHINGTON | The Army will rebid the multibillion-dollar contract under which a Halliburton Co. subsidiary has been providing services to troops around the world after years of complaints over how the deal has worked in Iraq.

Critics of the contract said the move was overdue and that hundreds of millions of dollars had probably been wasted.

Halliburton subsidiary KBR, also known as Kellogg Brown & Root, provides food, water, shelter, laundry service and other logistical support for troops under a 2001 contract that has been extended several times.

Halliburton is a Texas-based oil services conglomerate once led by Vice President Dick Cheney. Bush administration officials have come under fire since the beginning of the war in Iraq for awarding more than $10 billion to the company. (AP)

Lay Funeral Draws Crowd

Dignitaries, friends mourn Enron founder at second memorial

HOUSTON | Former President George Bush and his wife, Barbara, were among the mourners Wednesday at a memorial service of Enron Corp. founder Kenneth Lay.

Lay's memorial service drew some of the high-profile guests who were close to him before he was convicted in May of fraud and conspiracy for lying to investors and the public about the energy company's financial health before it collapsed in 2001.

Among the other mourners at the downtown Houston church Lay attended for 12 years were former Secretary of State James A. Baker III, Houston Astros owner Drayton McLane Jr., heart surgeon Denton Cooley and Lay's criminal lawyer, Mike Ramsey.

His co-defendant, former Enron chief executive Jeffrey Skilling, did not attend the service Wednesday.

IN MOURNING: Rebecca Carter, left, wife of former Enron CEO Jeff Skilling, hugs an unidentified woman after a memorial service for Ken Lay on Wednesday.

Skilling did attend a private service Sunday in Aspen, Colo., where Lay died July 5, with about 200 friends and family members.

Skilling's wife, former Enron corporate secretary Rebecca Carter, did attend Wednesday's memorial.

Former Houston Mayor Bob Lanier, 80, collapsed at the memorial service shortly after arriving and was taken by ambulance.

Lay, 64, died while vacationing in Aspen with his wife, Linda.

Wildfires Threaten Old Western Movie Sets

1,000 evacuated as blazes burn through historic Calif. towns

YUCCA VALLEY, CALIF. | Firefighters evacuated dozens of homes Wednesday as a wildfire raced across 26,000 acres of desert and destroyed 30 homes and buildings in an area where Gene Autry, Roy Rogers and others filmed Hollywood Westerns.

Historic buildings in the Old West movie set area of Pioneertown had been spared but several other structures were destroyed, fire officials said Wednesday.

Wind exceeding 40 mph fanned the flames, and officials said they didn't expect the weather to change anytime soon.

Dozens were evacuated Wednesday from communities in Little Morongo Canyon and Burns Canyon. As many as 1,000 people fled the flames Tuesday, authorities said. Firefighters had no estimate Wednesday of when they might have the blaze under control.

"If we have more of the same with the high winds and high temperatures it could be trouble," said California Department of Forestry Capt. Marc DeRosier.

The blaze burned through historic Pioneertown, destroying at least 30 homes. The historic town was host to Hollywood cowboys.

How to Find Real Estate for 30% to 50% Below Market Value

DISCOVER THE HUGE SOURCE OF PROFITS MOST REAL ESTATE INVESTORS OVERLOOK

"I can show you from firsthand experience, it can take just a couple hours of your time to position yourself to make tens of thousands of dollars in real estate."
J.G. Banks, legendary probate investor

You can buy choice real estate for 30 percent to 50 percent of its market value, sell it quickly for its full price, and make tens of thousands of dollars on just about every investment.

You can do this with single-family houses. Duplexes. Condominiums. Apartment buildings. Strip malls. Office buildings. Ranchland. Farms. All types of real estate.

The reason these bargain properties exist is that they are part of an estate that's in probate. Don't let the word "probate" scare you. There is no legal mumbo jumbo involved. When you acquire real estate that's part of someone's estate, you're simply helping beneficiaries settle the estate by purchasing its assets.

In just a few hours each week — less time than most folks spend watching TV during a single evening — you can learn to cash in with estates by following my easy-to-follow "estate mining system."

A single mom with three teenagers used my system to purchase the home she never thought she could afford. But when you get the property for half price, that's what can make the difference.

In every neighborhood, it's possible that one or two properties, and maybe more, are in probate. You can find profit-making opportunities close to home. Even areas of town you only dreamed of moving to can suddenly become affordable when the price of real estate drops in half.

To Make Big Money: BUY LOW and SELL HIGH

Rest assured, I'm not talking about rundown foreclosures, bankruptcies, or condemned properties like the slew of so-called "real estate gurus." Properties in probate can be beautiful homes with no mortgage or debt attached, making them some of the cleanest and easiest of all real estate to buy low and sell high quickly.

There is no "For Sale" sign out front, and few people know where to find these properties. But for those who do, it can be a land of riches and the fastest route I know to making big money in real estate.

Why Such Incredible Bargains Everywhere?

Not every beneficiary wants to keep the property they inherited. Perhaps the estate involves people who live out of state and they don't want to change their lives. If a house is willed to more than one person, it's likely the property must be sold to ensure everybody gets their share.

Plus, most beneficiaries want their money quickly. Fifty dollars today is a lot better than the promise of $100 sometime off in the future. Especially when attorney fees are eating away at that $100 value. So you have highly motivated sellers who appreciate you're helping them get on with their lives.

Believe It or Not, a 300% Gain Can Be "All in a Day's Work"

The potential to make significant money is huge. For example, if you purchased just one property at a 30 percent discount, and then resold the property for 100 percent of its market value, you'd make about $45,000 on a property worth $150,000. And with my system, it may not even take a full week's effort to do this.

But here's how you leverage your money to make gigantic profits... assuming you put down 10 or 15 percent to purchase the property, when you quickly sell for full market value, the gain on your initial down payment could easily be more than 300 percent.

Real estate has long been a proven path to making millions of dollars. Almost anyone can walk along this path, and I believe that no route has more moneymaking potential than the one you'll discover in my FREE workshop.

How to Get the Cash to Buy Properties

In addition to learning why it's possible to regularly purchase real estate for as little as 50 cents on the dollar, you'll also discover it's possible to get the cash to fund your offers to buy properties.

That means, you do not have to have money in the bank.

A gentleman from Dallas purchased 18 probate properties his first year.

Another student bought a vacant lot for $40,000 less than comparable lots on the same street.

You won't find a book on "How to Make Money in Estates" at bookstores. My FREE workshop is the only way to start learning the secrets of "estate investing."

More than $3 trillion worth of assets are in probate.

It's a buyer's paradise. Yet there are very few real estate investors who know about it.

I guarantee that if you attend my FREE workshop and put yourself "in the know," you'll be positioned to be "in the money" as never before.

TOP FIVE REASONS TO ACQUIRE PROBATE PROPERTIES

- 1 BARGAIN-BASEMENT PRICES: The probate market is full of fabulous properties you can snap up for 30% to 50% below market value. Get the home of your dreams for your family, or resell quickly and be positioned to capture a lifetime of gains within days. It's the ultimate "Buy Low/Sell High" scenario.
- 2 HUGE INVENTORY: There are almost six million estates in probate, with assets worth trillions of dollars. Every type of real estate — from houses to beachside motels — are in probate. According to the Los Angeles Times, there are nearly 44 times more probate properties than properties in foreclosure.
- 3 BUYER'S MARKET: Purchasing property out of an estate assures you of a highly motivated seller. Most beneficiaries are anxious to sell the house (and other unwanted assets) so that they can pay off debts attached to the estate that must all be settled before the estate can be distributed.
- 4 ALL KINDS OF TREASURES: Historic architecture, classic cars, fine jewelry, antiques, art, toys, collectibles, and much more enter into probate every day. Millions of items. And they can sit there for years unless you rescue them.
- 5 IT'S A SECRET: Few people know how to find and purchase property from an estate. Even the beneficiaries don't know how to sell. That means, as a "first in" estate investor, you have little or no competition from other buyers — plus you're helping anxious sellers.

How to Buy Almost Anything for 30% to 50% Off

BUSINESSES. CLASSIC CARS. ANTIQUES. ART. COLLECTIBLES. TREASURES OF ALL KINDS.

There's a whole world of assets beyond houses. To start, there can be commercial real estate including industrial parks and offices. Plus all kinds of personal property — even businesses.

An enterprising young man turned his love for cars, and the knowledge he gained from the J.G. Banks workshop, into a career. The man purchased an auto shop that the beneficiaries had no interest in. He and his brother own and run the business, creating for themselves a potential lifetime of profits from one estate purchase. The flow of wealth didn't stop there. Our student also netted over $22,000 in profit on four cars. All four vehicles were acquired using the J.G. Banks system.

An estate can be your quickest way to acquire a prime business for pennies on the dollar. You can run it, or sell it quickly for market value and position yourself for substantial gains.

Estate hunting is also a great way to start an e-business, auction off your findings, and cash in on the new, thriving e-based economy.

One of our students made profits of 1,000 percent to 3,000 percent on the possessions he found in estates and then quickly sold. There is a potential windfall in every estate you search.

You can use probate to build a tidy business around just about any item or collectible that interests you. Millions of items, and real estate, end up as "buried treasure" hidden in probate.

Israeli Troops Cross Into Lebanon

Military opens new front after Hezbollah captures 2 soldiers

JERUSALEM | Israel bombed and shelled southern Lebanon and sent ground troops over the border for the first time in six years Wednesday after Hezbollah guerrillas captured two Israeli soldiers. The fighting killed eight Israeli soldiers and three Lebanese.

Hezbollah's brazen cross-border raid opened a second front for the Israeli army. The army is now fighting Islamic militants in both Lebanon and the Gaza Strip, where it is looking for another soldier who was captured more than two weeks ago by Hamas-linked militants.

Israeli Prime Minister Ehud Olmert called the Hezbollah raid an "act of war" by Lebanon and threatened "very, very, very painful" retaliation. The Cabinet, meeting in the wake of the military's highest daily death toll in four years, decided to continue the army operation and call on the international community to disarm Hezbollah, according to participants.

Residents of northern Israeli towns were ordered to seek cover in underground bomb shelters as Hezbollah, an anti-Israel guerrilla group that essentially runs southern Lebanon, launched rockets across the border throughout the day.

STANDOFF WORSENS: Residents view the damage to a bridge in southern Lebanon after it was hit by Israeli planes Wednesday.

Two Lebanese civilians and a Hezbollah fighter also were killed in the border violence. Still, jubilant Hezbollah supporters and Palestinians in Lebanon fired guns in the air and set off firecrackers at the news of the soldiers' capture.

Hezbollah leader Sheik Hassan Nasrallah said he would free the Israeli soldiers only in a prisoner swap, adding that he was open to a deal that would include the release of the soldier held in Gaza.

"The capture of the two soldiers could provide a solution to the Gaza crisis," he told reporters in Beirut.

At least 23 Palestinians were killed in Gaza on Wednesday. And an Israeli airstrike early Thursday destroyed the building housing the Hamas-controlled Palestinian Foreign Ministry.

Analysts in Lebanon said

Hezbollah also might have launched the raid to improve its standing in the Arab world and at home, where the militants have come under pressure to disarm.

In an attempt to assassinate top Hamas fugitives Wednesday, Israel dropped a quarter-ton bomb on a home in Gaza City, killing a couple and seven of their children. (AP)

Iran to Face Security Council Action

World powers express frustration at lack of response to nuke plan

PARIS | Frustrated world powers agreed Wednesday to send Iran before the United Nations Security Council for possible punishment, saying the Iranians had given no sign they would bargain in earnest over their disputed nuclear program.

The move amounted to calling Iran's bluff. Diplomats said recent meetings with Iran's nuclear negotiator have gone nowhere and it was clear Tehran hoped to play for time or exploit potential divisions among the six powers that have offered new talks.

"The indications are that Iran's response has been disappointing and incomplete," Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice told reporters.

Rice

The U.S. and other nations wanted Iran to say by Wednesday whether it would meet terms to begin negotiations on a package of economic and energy incentives in exchange for at least a short-term end to uranium enrichment.

Though Russia and China signed on to Wednesday's statement, the two traditional commercial partners of Iran previously have opposed tough sanctions.

Russian Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov expressed his disappointment with Iran for not responding to the proposals. Lavrov said that if Tehran does not agree to return to negotiations "the Security Council will consider steps appropriate to the situation," the ITAR-Tass news agency reported. ANNE GEARAN (AP)

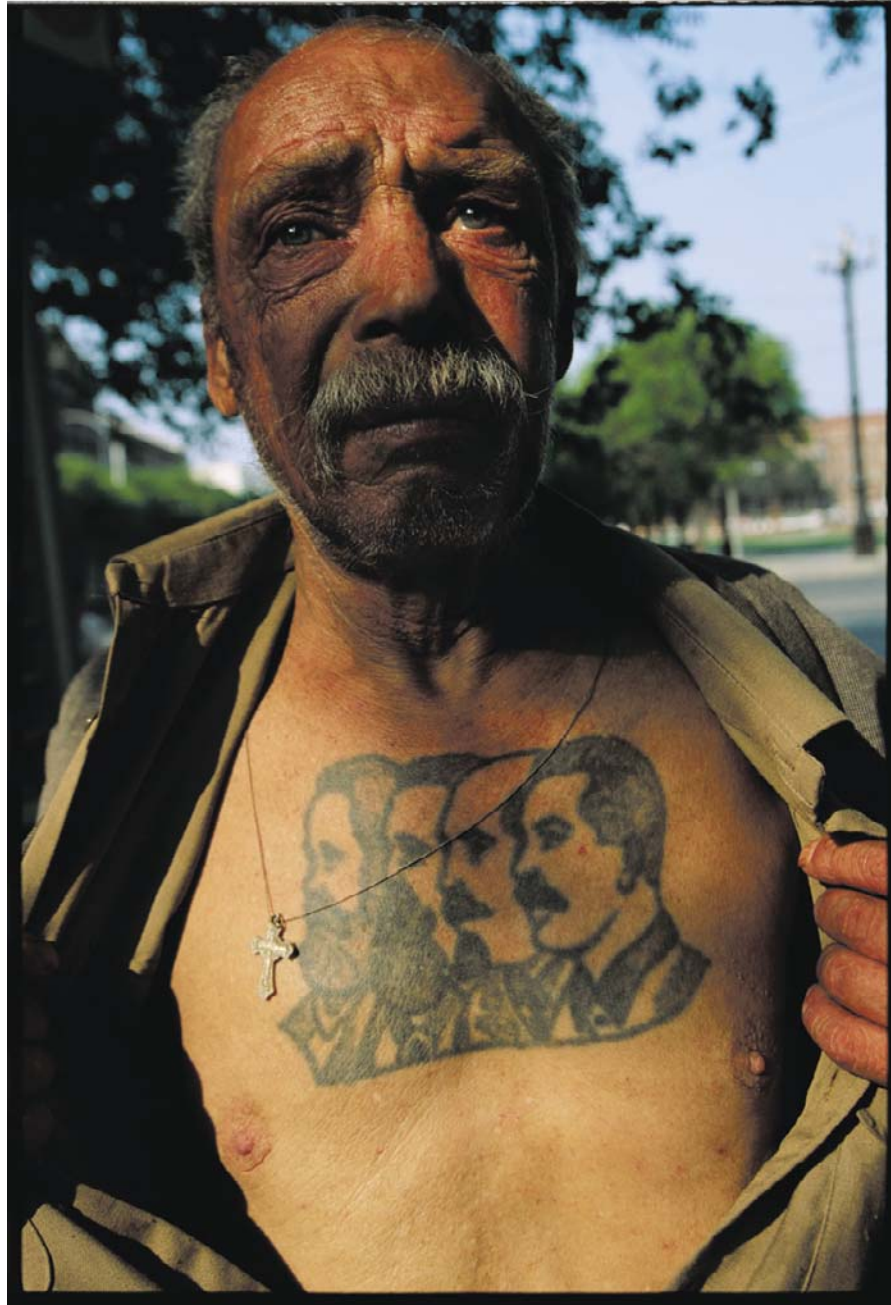

China, Russia Float New Plan On North Korea

UNITED NATIONS | China and Russia introduced a resolution Wednesday deploring North Korea's missile tests but dropping language from a rival proposal that could have led to military action against Pyongyang.

Japan and the U.S. welcomed the draft but said it had major deficiencies.

The Japanese resolution's supporters have delayed a vote to wait for the outcome of a high-level Chinese visit to North Korea which began on Monday. (AP)

Sectarian Violence Spikes

Dozens of Shiites die in latest Iraq attacks; PM pleads for unity

BAGHDAD, IRAQ | Gunmen seized two dozen Shiites from a bus station after separating them from the crowd in a predominantly Sunni area Wednesday, killing them and dumping their bodies in a nearby village — the latest in a series of brazen attacks.

Prime Minister Nouri al-Maliki appealed for unity and warned the nation's future was at stake. "We all have the last chance to reconcile and agree among each other on avoiding conflict and blood. If we fail, God forbid, I don't know what the fate of Iraq will be," he told parliament.

The gunmen arrived in several cars at the bus station in Muqdadiah about 6 a.m., forcing the captives into four vehicles they commandeered at the scene, officials said.

Blood covers the ground at the site of a bomb attack in Baghdad Wednesday.

The bloodied bodies of the victims, who were handcuffed, blindfolded and shot in the head, were found behind a pile of small rocks near the main street of Azham village, police said.

Maj. Gen. Ahmed al-Awad, commander of the Iraqi army's 5th division, told state-run television the attackers separated Shiites from Sunnis, then took the Shiites to the nearby village of Ballour, an account supported by witnesses.

The massacre was part of a surge in sectarian violence that has killed more than 160 people since Sunday, when Shiite gunmen rampaged through a Baghdad neighborhood killing Sunnis.

Wednesday's attack coincided with an unannounced visit to Iraq by Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld, who said the new Iraqi government is not yet ready to decide on security issues that will determine the pace of U.S. troop reductions this year.

The top U.S. commander in Iraq, Gen. George Casey, told reporters that "terrorists and death squads" are mainly responsible for the heightened sectarian violence in the capital, and he pledged to provide whatever U.S. forces are needed to avert civil war. KIM GAMEL (AP)

Death toll from train bombings hits 200 as many seek missing kin

An inconsolable Vasanti Chavan is afraid it is the last happy photograph she will ever have of her 24-year-old son, Chetan.

It's a gray Wednesday afternoon, the day after eight explosions hit Bombay's commuter rail network during the evening rush hour, killing 200 and wounding 714, and the Chavan family is among the dozens still scouring the city's hospitals and morgues for missing relatives.

"It doesn't seem like he is all right. He would have called, he would have somehow got a message across," said Chetan's older brother, Gautam.

Authorities say they do not know how many missing people there are. But Indian television stations are broadcasting pictures of dozens of missing in the hopes of helping relatives locate them.

Seventeen bodies remain unclaimed in city hospitals, said K. Vatsa, a senior state welfare official. "We don't have a category of missing people. We just know how many of the dead have not been identified," he said.

Meanwhile, Chetan Chavan's brother, Gautam, is fearing the worst. "What if he's not recognizable? When will we know?" he says.

Then a relative appears, holding firmly onto Gautam's mother. The relative has received a phone call that Chetan's body has been found in a hospital morgue.

Vasanti breaks down, hugging her older son, never once letting go of the photograph. (AP)

The Vatican depends heavily on contributions from worldwide dioceses, which held steady around $92.9 million. Contributions to Peter's Pence, as individual donations to the pope are known, reached $59 million, up 15 percent from 2004. (AP)

Landmark Security Upped

Two robberies on Mall occur on night of crime emergency declaration

WASHINGTON | Police beefed up patrols around national landmarks Wednesday, a day after District of Columbia's police chief declared a crime emergency.

At least 14 people have been killed in Washington this month, and, in the last 30 days, robberies have risen 14 percent and armed assaults have jumped 18 percent. Last year, homicides in the city fell to a 20-year low of 195.

Police chief Charles Ramsey's emergency declaration allows commanders more flexibility to adjust officers' schedules and reassign them to high-crime areas.

"That's a short term solution," Ramsey said Wednesday. "Long-term is a lot more complicated than that and it's going to take a whole lot more than the police."

This is the third summer in four years that Ramsey has declared a crime emergency and the fourth time overall since he became chief in 1998. In 2004, Ramsey worked to halt a spate of car thefts by juveniles, and in 2003 another wave of killings had the city on edge.

Just hours after the declaration, two groups of tourists were robbed at gunpoint on the National Mall, both by men dressed all in black. (AP)

Boy Drowns During Summer Camp's Swimming Lessons

A 7-year-old boy drowned Wednesday during a swim lesson at a community pool. Police said the child was pulled from the pool shortly after 11 a.m. at the Jewish Community Center on Montrose Road. Police said the boy was one of five youngsters taking part in a regularly scheduled swim lesson as part of the school's day camp. There were at last 15 other children in the pool at the time and two life guards were on duty. The lifeguards saw the boy at the bottom of the pool in four feet of water, pulled him out and started CPR. He was taken to Suburban hospital, where he died. Police are investigating it as an accidental death. (AP)

Va. Congressman Calls for Summit on Crime Emergency

Virginia Congressman Frank Wolf is calling for a crime summit among all the area's law enforcement agencies to respond to D.C.'s crime emergency. Police chief Charles Ramsey declared the emergency in response to at least 14 homicides since July 1, and a jump in robberies and assaults with deadly weapons during the past 30 days. In a letter to President Bush, Wolf — who chairs the House Appropriations subcommittee — called for all area police agencies to work together to stop the crime wave, citing the Northern Virginia Gang Task force as an example of where such cooperation was successful. School's Abramoff Suit to Proceed ROCKVILLE, MD. | A judge Wednesday rejected a request by lobbyist Jack Abramoff to delay a civil suit against him by employees of a Jewish school he founded in 2001.

The lawsuit was filed two years ago by employees of Eshkol Academy, which closed its doors in 2004, who say they are owed back pay.

Abramoff's lawyer, Obi Okwumabua, said the suit should be delayed because Abramoff remains a cooperating witness in an ongoing government investigation. (AP)

Man Sought for Threat on Chief

PALMER PARK, MD. | Police in Prince George's County searched Wednesday for a man who allegedly threatened police chief Melvin C. High.

Investigators were not specific about the nature of the threat, but said the man has a history of mental instability and a long criminal record.

High was out of town at a conference, but detectives were staking out his home as a precaution and looking for the man. (AP)

Zidane Apologizes, Blames Italian

French captain says insult to mother, sister spurred his head butt

WORLD CUP | French soccer star Zinedine Zidane offered apologies but no regrets Wednesday for brutally head-butting an Italian opponent in the World Cup final, saying he was spurred by cruel insults to his mother and sister.

Exactly what was said between France's captain and Marco Materazzi remains a mystery, however. Zidane never was specific about what enraged him. So, for now, the exchange stays between them.

"I would rather have taken a punch in the jaw than have heard that," he told the Canal-Plus television network, stressing that Materazzi's language was "very harsh," and that he uttered the insults several times.

In his first public comments since Sunday's match, Zidane repeatedly apologized to fans — especially to children. But he said he didn't regret the abrupt, violent outburst.

Wednesday, he stressed he felt no regret "because that would mean (Materazzi) was right to say all that."

"There was a serious provocation," Zidane said. "My act is not forgivable. But they must also punish the true guilty party, and the guilty party is the one who provokes."

Materazzi has acknowledged he insulted Zidane, without giving specifics. He denied insulting Zidane's mother.

"I didn't say anything to him about racism, religion or politics," Materazzi told the Gazzetta dello Sport. "I didn't talk about his mother, either. I lost my mother when I was 15, and even now I still get emotional talking about her."

Zidane "has always been my hero," Materazzi said. "I admire him a lot." ANGELA DOLAND (AP)

Americans Looking for Revenge

After 2 losses last year, U.S. softball is newly motivated for Cup SOFTBALL | Losing one game is difficult enough for the U.S. softball team. So losing twice at the inaugural World Cup of Softball didn't sit well with the Americans.

On Thursday, they'll finally get their first chance for redemption.

The U.S. lost to Canada in the round-robin portion last year but was still able to reach the finals. A 3-1 loss to the Japanese handed the U.S. its first championship loss since 1997.

"I think we can use last year as a motivator," said catcher Stacey Nuveman. (AP)

Perkins Gets Surprise All-Star Nod

Goalie is 1 of 3 United starters to receive the mid-season honor

UNITED | It comes as no surprise that D.C. United's Jaime Moreno and Christian Gomez were among the 11 players named yesterday to represent MLS in the Aug. 5 All-Star game against English champion Chelsea FC.

They are the highly regarded attacking linchpins of the league's most dominant side.

But United (12-1-5) is a team that has been winning with defense lately, shutting out four of its past five opponents and yielding a league-low 14 goals in 18 games.

One of the principle architects of that success has been goalkeeper Troy Perkins, a relatively unknown third-year player who started twice last season and earned the job this spring when Nick Rimando got hurt.

Perkins has been outstanding, leading MLS in wins, shutouts and goals against average, and was rewarded yesterday with his own spot on the team that will take on the richest, most star-studded club in the world.

The 11 players named yesterday were selected by an equally-weighted vote of league GMs, coaches, players and fans. United United goalie Troy Perkins leads MLS in wins, shutouts and goals against average.

Coach Peter Nowak will lead the MLS All-Stars and will select five additional players. Two more commissioner's picks will round out the roster, which will be unveiled Monday.

The list announced yesterday is full of MVP candidates and national team players like Landon Donovan, Eddie Pope and Clint Dempsey. Perkins was excited to be among them.

"I think it is a great honor that people from around the league have selected me to take part in this game. There are a host of top quality players at my position in MLS. The guys in front of me are responsible for making this all possible, and I look forward to representing them and the club in Chicago."

Perkins played the second half in United's 2-1 loss to Chelsea last season.

Moreno is tied for second in MLS with nine goals and will be appearing in his sixth all-star game. Gomez, who has six goals and six assists this season, will play in his second straight. BRIAN STRAUS

German Coach Is Finished

Klinsmann denies any interest in taking over U.S. soccer program

WORLD CUP | Juergen Klinsmann walked away from the German national team on Wednesday, carrying a backpack with two soccer balls for his children and leaving his trusted assistant Joachim Loew in charge.

"I feel burned out," Klinsmann told a news conference while fighting back tears. "I have a great wish to be back with my family and my children and to get back into normal life."

Klinsmann dismissed reports that he had been approached to take over the U.S. national team.

"There is absolutely no interest on my side and no contact," he said.

Klinsmann, 41, stepped down only four days after leading Germany to a third-place finish at the World Cup, earning praise across the nation. He ignored calls to stay, coming from Chancellor Angela Merkel down to the ordinary fans.

Merkel said she was "very sad" to see him go. Franz Beckenbauer said Klinsmann should have taken more time to make a decision. (AP)

NATIONALS PITCHER MIKE STANTON

Q&A | Mike Stanton says he isn't big on reminiscing. But whenever he does decide to retire, he'll have a lot to think about. The southpaw has more than 16 years of Major League experience throwing for six different teams. He's been part of 11 post-seasons, earning three World Series rings. For his latest feat, the short reliever surpassed Hall of Famers Hoyt Wilhelm (1,070) and Dennis Eckersley (1,071) on the all-time games pitched list. Stanton had 1,076 career games under his belt at the All-Star break.

Was No. 1,070 any different than No. 1,000 for you?

(Laughs.) No, not really. If somebody wouldn't have said something to me, I probably wouldn't have realized it. I don't want to say it's no big deal because that would be disrespectful to the guys who are on that list. There are some pretty big names on that list. It's just not something that you really think about until later.

Nationals relief pitcher Mike Stanton, right, has thrown in 1,076 career games. After 16 years, he says the travel and constant play wear him down more every year.

Is there one moment — even one out — that stands out in your career?

Not really. The ones that stand out the most are the ones that don't count toward [the games pitched stat], which would be postseason. Again, I don't spend much time looking backward. I'm too busy looking forward.

Have you never been a stat guy?

I never really have. Baseball is such a sport of numbers, but sometimes stats don't tell the whole story.

Bowden's New Virtue: Nationals GM Jim Bowden must learn how to be patient as he rebuilds the club in the vision of its new owners | Today's Post, Sports

I spend a lot of time with family. I hunt ... do a little fishing.

What do you think you'll end up doing when you retire?

I haven't thought that much about it. As of right this minute, I'm kind of tired of the travel and being away from [my family] for so long.

At what point in a player's career does the travel get old?

It gets old every year. Getting in at four or five in the morning to turn around and play a game that next night — it has a toll on you.

What do you do now when you want to get away from the game?

I spend a lot of time with family. I've got a wife and three children. I hunt ... do a little fishing. ERIC BRANDNER

Supplemental Draft Is Former UVa Star's Hope

NFL | When he left coach Al Groh's office in March after his Virginia football career ended suddenly and without any of the fanfare forecast upon his arrival, Ahmad Brooks said he was sorry he hadn't lived up to his potential.

Brooks is hoping Thursday's Supplemental Draft marks a new beginning. That's when NFL teams have the option of using one of their 2007 draft choices on the linebacker, a former All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection who was dropped from the Cavaliers roster after an injury-plagued season and some off-the-field issues.

Once an almost certain first-round pick, Brooks' injuries and questions arising from his departure have hurt him. He won't find out how much until his phone rings with news of his selection. (AP)

Hernandez Is a Real Catch

Veteran behind the plate helps young O's staff learn the game

ORIOLES | Negotiating isn't limited to salesmen and diplomats. Catchers have to do it, too.

Ramon Hernandez — the Orioles' prize offseason acquisition — is no stranger to handling the complexities of a pitching staff. The backstop handled the trio of Tim Hudson, Mark Mulder and Barry Zito in Oakland before moving on to catching Jake Peavy and Trevor Hoffman in San Diego.

He keeps runners honest, his teams usually make the play-offs, and despite his significant resume, he doesn't mind getting shaken off.

"I think communication is the more important part," Hernandez said. "You have to find out how they want to work with you, and you go from there."

"I don't want to be the guy that says 'You do this because I tell you to.' I don't have the ball, so I don't know how you're feeling. If you're sure you want to throw something, I'm behind you. I don't want to [hold] you back, and if something good happens, we both did it. If something bad happens, we both did it, too."

Of course, Hernandez doesn't have the staff he had in either of his last two stops. The former All-Star is seen as a key cog in improving the woes of an Orioles' pitching staff that was 23rd in the majors in ERA in 2005 and is surrendering well over five runs a game this season.

"I think Ramon is really prepared when he comes into ballgames," Orioles closer Chris Ray said. "He calls a good game. He's got a great arm, and he's great defensively."

The MVP of the 2006 Caribbean World Series signed a four-year, $27.5 million contract with the Birds in the offseason.

While plate management is his calling card, Baltimore got an unexpected return on its investment from Hernandez at the plate. The career .263 hitter has been a staple in the middle of the Orioles' order — batting .273 through the All-Star break — and is second on the team in homers (15) and RBIs (61).

But in the end, Hernandez's legacy in orange and black will depend on his ability to foster an inexperienced pitching staff into a winner.

"We all want to work hard and win games," Hernandez said. "It takes time, but there are no excuses."

ERIC BRANDNER

A Sloppy Decade for the Dirty Birds

First place is a fantasy for Orioles, facing 9th straight losing season

ORIOLES | A year ago, the Baltimore Orioles allowed everything they accomplished before the All-Star break to be ruined by an agonizing second-half collapse. That won't be an issue this season.

The Orioles reached the break with a 41-49 record, the eighth time in the last nine years they hit the midpoint below .500. The lone exception was in 2005, when Baltimore was 47-40 and in second place in the AL East.

Brian Roberts, top, has the tough task of helping the O's get back above .500.

Baltimore went 27-48 in the second half and stumbled to its eighth consecutive losing season.

For the Orioles to avoid extending that embarrassing streak to nine, they must bounce back from a disappointing first half. Perhaps the lone benefit of last year's demise is that it showed anything can happen over the season's final 2½ months.

"I think that we're all disappointed in the way we started this season," second baseman Brian Roberts said. "But we started off so well last year. So if you put together a real good stretch in the second half, then you're right back in it." (AP)

Dessel's King in Pyrenees

New leader is the first up all three mountains, but can't win the stage

CYCLING | Unheralded French rider Cyril Dessel took the Tour de France leader's yellow jersey Wednesday in the first high altitude stage.

Juan Miguel Mercado of Spain won the stage, beating Dessel in a sprint to the line at Pau in the Pyrenees.

The previous yellow jersey holder, Serhiy Honchar of Ukraine, was still riding far behind in the main pack when Mercado and Dessel finished.

Because Dessel is not considered a threat, top riders were content to let him and other lower placed cyclists get away. He started the 10th stage in 28th place — 3 minutes, 50 seconds behind Honchar.

AG2R's Dessel and Agritubel's Mercado were part of a group of 15 riders that escaped ahead of the main pack early on. They built up a healthy lead that carried them to the

I may be preventing its harmful effects.

Prevention. The overall goal in lowering high blood pressure is to prevent the development of other harmful effects. Even a slight decrease in blood pressure could have lasting effects on quality of life including lowering the chances of heart failure, stroke, heart attack and kidney failure.

Our physicians are conducting a research study of the investigational use of approved medications, used in combination, to see if they effectively lower blood pressure.

Adults with high blood pressure who have never experienced heart failure, heart attack or stroke may qualify to participate.

All study related care is provided including physical examinations, laboratory services and study medications.

'TODAY'S FAMILIES': James Black and Nicki Micheaux in a scene from ABC Family's "Lincoln Heights," about a cop who returns to his old neighborhood.

The ABCs Of Family

Original programming gets a boost with a wide range of series

SHINING UP | What do TV shows about a mysterious teenager minus a bellybutton, a police officer returning to his urban neighborhood and a small town dealing with the possible end of the world have in common?

The three series are on or joining ABC Family's schedule, part of an effort to boost original programming after traditional reliance on old series reruns and movies — and to put a new gloss on a channel with an erratic history.

There's a renewed emphasis on the "Family" in the channel's title, but with a current twist, and a more aggressive hunt for viewers in the 18-to-28 age group, said ABC Family President Paul Lee, the executive guiding the building effort since 2004.

"Family drama is alive and well and people are rediscovering it," said Lee.

ABC Family is counting on a slate of new series to accomplish that, including the heavily promoted "Kyle XY," about the anatomically incorrect teenage boy who is given a home by a social worker and her family and soon displays extraordinary abilities.

"Three Moons Over Milford," debuting on Aug. 6, stars Elizabeth McGovern, Nora Dunn and Rob Boltin in the tale of how the town's residents respond when faced with a cosmic crisis: An explosion has split the moon into three pieces, perhaps portending the world's demise.

Coming in 2007 is the channel's boldest bet, "Lincoln Heights," about a black lawman who returns to his crime-filled neighborhood.

Black family dramas are rare on TV, as Lee well knows. But he said the show fits with the channel's goal of putting on "high-quality shows about today's families, not yesterday's."

While some critics argue the blunt depiction of tough contemporary issues makes the channel less family-friendly, Lee disagrees.

"We feel we're doing our mandate here. ... We're not in an 'Ozzie & Harriet' world. We are in a 'Lincoln Heights' world." LYNN ELBER (AP)

A British 'supercop' teaches other peace officers to toughen up

TOUGH GUY | “Commander Castle” (10 & 10:30 p.m., A&E) is part of A&E’s turn toward testosterone-enhanced reality fare.

"Castle" features Paul Castle, a gruff British "supercop" who works as a trainer and cheerleader for police forces. "Commander" follows the consultant as he travels from city to city conducting a week-long boot camp, challenging cops who have grown soft, slow and less-than-prepared for deadly encounters with drug dealers, gangs and assorted ruffians.

If watching police officers do endless sit-ups is your idea of entertainment, then be my guest. The producers try to enhance the drama with scenes of Castle e-mailing his fiancée, reading her poetry and discussing the ups and downs of relationships.

Castle does have his soft side. He's protective of small creatures and escorts a helpless mouse out of a precinct house. And he gets choked up addressing the graduates. His voice quavering, he tells them he hopes their preparation will save their lives. He's buried enough police comrades. "The next funeral I want to attend," says Castle, "is my own." KEVIN MCDONOUGH

How a top Calif. chef is finding the cure for boring cold cuts

Hanging from racks like infant stalactites, Paul Bertolli's gourmet Italian sausages gently ripen inside a nondescript building on Berkeley, Calif.'s industrial West Side.

They say you should never see laws or sausages being made. That may be true of politics, but there's nothing for the carnivore to fear here.

The machines gleam with the silvery burnish of stainless steel. The workers wear white coats and hats. The freshly ground pork churns in a whirl of pink and white.

Bertolli, former assistant chef at the famed Chez Panisse restaurant in Berkeley and chef at Oakland's Oliveto Restaurant, calls his new venture Fra' Mani Handcrafted Salumi. "Salumi" is Italian for salted, cured cuts of meat or sausages made primarily from pork. "Fra' Mani" roughly translates to, "from our hands to your hands."

His ambition: to use traditional methods for a handcrafted cure for the common sausage.

"I just have a real nostalgia for the products I tasted as a child," says Bertolli, whose grandfather was an Italian butcher.

There's a science to sausages.

You start with the freshest ingredients — Bertolli gets his hogs whole from farms in the Midwest. They are raised without confinement, antibiotics or artificial growth hormones.

A sense of history helps. Bertolli got advice from an Italian butcher with 47 years in the business. "He could smell a Ph difference, this guy," Bertolli says.

How a sausage tastes depends on the cuts of meat that go into it, what kind of casing is used and how it's cured.

Salame gentile, a traditional cured sausage, is made from selected cuts of the leg, shoulder and belly, seasoned with sea salt, cracked black pepper and white wine and stuffed into a "budello gentile," a casing made from the pig's large intestine.

producers across the country.

At La Quercia Artisan Cured Meats in Des Moines, Iowa, Herb and Kathy Eckhouse specialize in cured prosciutto hams. When they started out a few years ago, people weren't sure what to make of them. "I felt like Johnny Prosciutto Seed out here," he jokes.

Now, La Quercia is curing 5,000 to 10,000 pounds of pork a week and sells its Prosciutto Americano and Pancetta Americana across the country.

Taking the artisanal approach is challenging, "because we got to try to figure out what we did seven months ago that made it taste like it did today."

In Berkeley, Bertolli's crew of

Build a Better Salami

— all produce a different result.

"This is why it gets fascinating, because I just experiment all the time," Bertolli says.

To cure a sausage, the meat is salted and then fermented by adding microorganisms that convert a small amount of corn sugar to lactic acid.

The casings are inoculated with beneficial mold that grows into a breathable skin, and the sausage is hung to dry in temperature-controlled rooms. In the drying rooms, fans cycle on and off to create a respiratory pattern like a giant lung and wick moisture away at just the right rate.

Like sausage makers of centuries past, Bertolli uses a tool made from the sharpened shinbone of a horse — porous and tough — to poke the air-drying sausages and sniff to see if the process is going well.

Finally, like wine, the sausage is aged in a cool cellar to finish and refine the flavors.

The finished products join an emerging market of handcrafted cured meats being made by small six produces about 7,000 to 8,000 pounds of salumi a day, selling to restaurants and markets mostly in California and the Northwest. There are plans to expand to the East Coast and beyond in the fall.

Sausage is about where cheese was 30 years ago, Bertolli says. Back then, a lot of it came yellow, sliced and wrapped in plastic, far different than the bevy of artisanal products available now.

He envisions a sausage renaissance: "There's a huge craze for it right now." MICHELLE LOCKE (AP)

Meat Gets Crunchier

Groceries

Organic food co-ops introduce steak — and hip coffee bars

Move over, tofu. Beef has come to the food co-op.

Just as mainstream supermarkets have upped their organic offerings in recent years, many of the natural food cooperatives that sprouted decades ago on the fringes of their communities have grown into stores resembling modern grocery outlets — with meat and fish counters, in-store cafes and coffee bars.

Co-op advocates say the changes reflect both the desires of their member-owners and a need to compete with everyone from Whole Foods to Wal-Mart for organic food sales. But they say co-ops still offer something the national food marketers don't: ownership in a community organization dedicated to locally grown foods.

“Organic doesn't mean weird — it simply means food grown in more traditional ways.”

TENA MEADOWS O'REAR
CO-FOUNDER, THE COMMON MARKET

“More and more consumers are realizing that organic doesn't mean weird — it simply means food grown in more traditional ways,” said Tena Meadows O'Rear, who helped found The Common Market cooperative in Frederick, Md., with five other families in 1974.

She said the increased availability of organics at conventional stores has helped the co-op by exposing more people to such products. Those who then come to the Common Market's bright new store seeking a broader range of organics can learn how buying local helps sustain the dwindling number of farms in Frederick County.

Mark Eyestone, produce buyer for The Common Market, carefully places apples.

On July 29, the co-op will host a grand opening celebration at its new store, which features fresh meat and seafood, a deli, cafe, olive bar and 36-foot gourmet cheese island. The 18,000-square-foot space is four times bigger than the co-op's old quarters. It also presents a formidable challenge to My Organic Market, a privately owned chain opening a store in Frederick later this year.

Not all food co-ops embrace the trend toward consumer-driven product offerings and away from the crunchy ideals of their largely vegetarian founders. The Ocean Beach People's Organic Foods Market in San Diego doesn't sell meat and probably never will unless members vote to change the bylaws, said financial manager Jamie Decker.

There was controversy at the Common Market in the mid-1990s about whether to carry meat but founder O'Rear, a strict vegan, said she's glad it was approved. “Two of my kids eat meat. I want them to have a place where they can purchase meat that has been grown in ways that respect the environment,” O'Rear said.

The Common Market contains plenty of reminders that it is a food co-op. There are bins of carob-covered nuts and a dozen types of bulk granola. A copy of the Macro Biotic Network newsletter is pinned to the community bulletin board.

Sally Fulmer, the store's marketing manager, said the co-op aims to become a community meeting place. Its leaders also have hopes of opening a second store someday, she said.

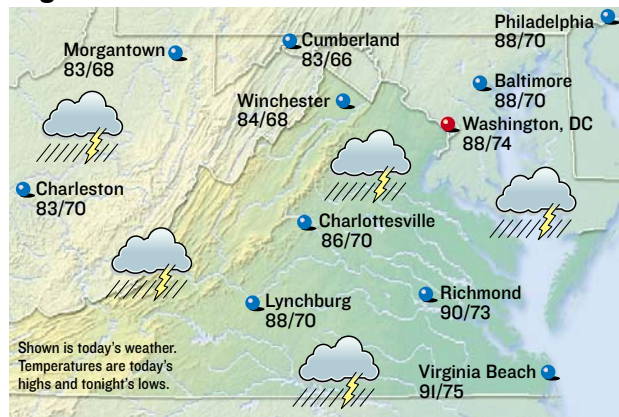

“We're definitely looking forward to being a growing part of a growing community,” she said.

White Now

Carry or wear these pale finds well beyond Labor Day's deadline

Though the old "don't wear white before Memorial Day" rule has pretty much fallen by the wayside, those who still abide by such fashion edicts have multiple reasons to rejoice. For not only has Memorial Day come and gone, but this summer is a banner season for all things white when it comes to clothing and, more importantly, accessories.

Designers as varied as Calvin Klein, Prada, Chanel, Derek Lam, Catherine Malandrino, Fendi, Chloe, Christian Dior, Gucci, Marc Jacobs and Alexander McQueen sent snow white shoes, bags and belts down their spring/summer runways — and accessories mavens Christian Louboutin, Manolo Blahnik, Jimmy Choo and Kate Spade all jumped up on the bandwagon, too.

Perhaps designers were inspired by the increasingly hot and humid weather brought about by global warming, or maybe it's just a mass reaction to the color saturated girly-girl hues of summers past. Whatever the reason, one thing is clear: White accessories come in all styles and price points right now, and they couldn't be any cooler-looking.

Downtown gals on budgets will appreciate the cute, well-priced offerings from Urban Outfitters, such as the Chunky Opaque sunglasses ($18), gold-trimmed, stacked heel Seychelles peep toe slingbacks ($78) and the Double Strap Zipper bag, a roomy vinyl carryall with four oversized pockets that can be worn as a tote or messenger bag ($48).

White floral leather ponytail holders by Cara Couture ($35) and a gold-and-silver studded Sonia Rykiel Domino hobo bag ($1,175) will get you big ups in the style department (at Intermix stores nationwide or intermixonline.com), while Due Farina's embossed leather, braided trim Mini-Weekender bag ($500, duefarina.com) nods to this summer's trend but has a timeless, ladylike appeal.

Michael Kors, meanwhile, offered a luxe take on the trend with his ivory ostrich Desert Drawstring Satchel, with cognac leather trim and antique brass hardware ($3,500, at Michael Kors stores or michaelkors.com). Donna Karan went the two-tone route with her ecru stretch suede-and-white napa leather, wooden heeled sandals ($420 at Donna Karan boutiques), as did Oscar de la Renta, who adorned a flax linen clutch ($725), slippers ($395) and sandals ($450) with elegant white beaded embroidery (oscardelarenta.com).

Want more bang for your buck? Beverly Feldman makes a range of white sandals in a variety of styles, but none more than $200, and most costing half that (at Beverly Feldman boutiques or beverlyfeldmanshoes.com). If your style is more hipster than haute, Candice Nicole's bone leather Leo clutch with gold studs and D-ring details ($425, candicenicole.com) is sure to appeal.

Anthropologie is carrying a slew of bleached-out accessories this summer. To wit: Alexis Bittar's Sunbeam Belt ($158) looks pretty over jeans or a flirty frock, while the rustic-chic, brass coin-adorned Treasure Slides ($168) are both cool and comfy. Finally, if you're looking for a handbag that's big enough to carry you through to fall, you can't do better than the Twofold Tote ($358), a canvas number with tobacco leather trim that is of-the-moment without screaming "fashion victim." It'll look as good with your favorite jeans come October as it does with your sundress and flip-flops right now (Anthropologie stores or anthropologie.com).

LAUREN DAVID PEDEN (FASHION WIRE DAILY)

From top: Alexis Bittar's Sunbeam belt ($158, Anthropologie); Due Farina Mini-Weekender bag ($500, duefarina.com); Sonia Rykiel Domino hobo ($1,175, Intermix); Anthropologie's Treasure slides ($168)

Beauty

A Paler Shade of Pink

Pink is pretty. Armani gets that, and uses it in the new PINK SATIN ARMANISILK collection, which includes lipstick ($25, giorgio armanibeauty.com or at Saks Fifth Avenue Chevy Chase), gloss ($26) and liner ($25). We preferred the lip glosses, which are as moisturizing as lip balm and have a wonderful shimmer that makes lips look healthy, not sticky. And the lip liners went on smooth, with no crayon-y feel. The colors can be tricky (they tend to look a little frosty), so we'd recommend trying before buying. KRISTEN PAGE-KIRBY (EXPRESS)

Beverages

Nice Ice Baby

After giving up on his departed dive bar Uncle Jed's Roadhouse, Alan Emery has a new gig: exclusive D.C. area distributor of LIQUID ICE ENERGY DRINK (a case is $40 at liquidiceenergydrink.com). The fluid's blue color might scare off some partiers, but it's actually not as sweet as most of the ultra-caFFEINATED stuff on the market, and it has zero aftertaste. So of course, it mixes well with booze. Find out how well tonight at Tommy Joe's (4714 Montgomery Lane, Bethesda, 5:30 p.m., 301-654-3801), where they'll be introducing the beverage to the 'hood with rum and vodka drinks. Customer Service Quandary

GROCERIES | Staffing problems seem to be a recurring issue facing the crew at the SOCIAL SAFEWAY in the GEORGETOWN/BURLEITH area, according to CHAPTER2006.BLOGSPOT.COM. Employee problems are standard fare for any grocery store — or business of most stripes, for that matter — but that doesn't mean much for a consumer caught in customer-service hell.

Chapter 2006's tale of woe involving Tony the cashier's malfunctioning debit-card reader is just such a situation: "He tells me to go to Customer Service. I tell him no since there's no one there. He sends me to register 10. Still, no one there. Finally, he hands me my bags and sends me away. I think he

Live Online

The Music Man

Washington Post music critic J. FREEDOM DU LAC was online Wednesday at washingtonpost.com to chat about new R&B, Syd Barrett, Outkast's new album and Johnny Cash.

So, what do you like for R&B this summer. I caught Van Hunt opening for the [Brand New] Heavies this weekend and WHOA!

Loving Van Hunt, and I dug the set at the 9:30 club. But isn't it bad concert etiquette to do an encore as an opening act? Which he did. In fact, he sort of did 1.5 encores, returning for a coda after walking off the stage during the encore itself.

Rest in peace Syd Barrett. I wonder if this will spur the rest of [Pink Floyd] to do a concert?

If Sir Bob Geldof can lure them out for Live 8, then I don't see why not. (Other than the fact that they don't really get along.)

Have you joined Jay-Z's Cristal boycott yet? I'm thinking of going back to Rolling Rock myself.

It's all about the Krug Clos du Mesnil. Plenty of rhyming possibilities, too, so what's not to love (besides the price)?

This down year in music will certainly pick up on Aug. 22. That's the day that Outkast's 'Idlewild' will drop.

I'm really looking forward to that album. Though they have a pretty impossible task, following up such a brilliant release. I'm hopeful, though, after hearing "Morris Brown." There's also another really tasty track floating around in the ethers, "Idlewild Blues."

What are the sales figures looking like for the new Johnny Cash album?

Not a blockbuster along the lines of the new Rascal Flatts album, but it sold enough to hit No. 1 this week. Quite an accomplishment. It's J.C.'s first No. 1 since "Johnny Cash at San Quentin" ... 37 years ago. It's also his first No. 1 on the country chart in 21 years. Pretty great, eh?

DON'T

SPEND TOO MUCH EFFORT MAKING ART. Art is all in the eye of the beholder and relative and can be anything and blah blah blah. So why put tons of time in to making it? Instead, jump on the "Web art" movement (one such piece at secrettechnology.com).

Horoscope

By Stella Wilder

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It's time to work more closely with others. Cooperation can increase your chances of success and bring greater rewards than you expected.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Keep your spirits up, and you can be a shining example to others whose situations are not nearly as complex as your own.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You can impress others with what you don't do just as dramatically as with what you do. Things unsaid are heard loud and clear.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Don't ignore or discount messages and signs that you do not understand. Do everything you can to increase awareness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) A trend is continuing that allows you to take further advantage of circumstances that take you very much by surprise. Focus on new information.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

Collaborate with others if you so choose, but realize there are certain things you can only do on your own, in moments of solitude.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Someone may be keeping important information from you. If that's the case, you'll have to make a key decision based solely on instinct.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) The more you say the more others are likely to pass you by. Speak only when you insist on being heard, and you'll be satisfied.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) What you used to do in the old days that worked so well for you may be worth a second try. You can put on a good show.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Why take something that works so well for you and change it? Leave well enough alone, and enjoy the fruits of your labors.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're likely to get more than you bargained for from a Libra native who has become involved in your own affairs at the workplace.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Even though you feel you are an expert at telling others just what it is you really want, you can be even a little more aggressive.

Biased Coverage of Zidane

THE COVERAGE (especially Matt Swenson's column Tuesday) in Express over the head-butting incident at the World Cup final is insulting to both readers and one of the world's best players in its one-sidedness. The incident, while unfortunate for Zidane the athlete, does in no way diminish his standing as the role model that he is, nor should it place him among the likes of Mike Tyson or Christian Laettner. To those who would say that no amount of provocation would justify his behavior, coverage all over the world has reported on Materazzi's insult of Zidane's heritage and of his mother and sister. If anything, Zidane should be commended for standing up to racist, hateful remarks.

NAME: Matt Gaffney
GIG: Crossword-puzzle constructor, author of "Gridlock"

D.C. PUZZLEMAN Matt Gaffney sold his first crossword while he was still in high school. Now in his early thirties, he's spent half his life in the business. His is a craft practiced by a coterie of lexical obsessives, and Gaffney knows all the major players. He has recently published "Gridlock: Crossword Puzzles and the Mad Geniuses Who Create Them" — his first book in which almost all the words are horizontal.

You call yourself a cruciverbalist. Aren't you afraid of villagers showing up with torches and pitchforks? It's happened, and you just learn to live with the pain.

The word does sound sinister. It's a sinister profession. We sit around thinking of ways to fool people and waste their time and annoy them. It is pretty evil.

Constructors take pride in that.

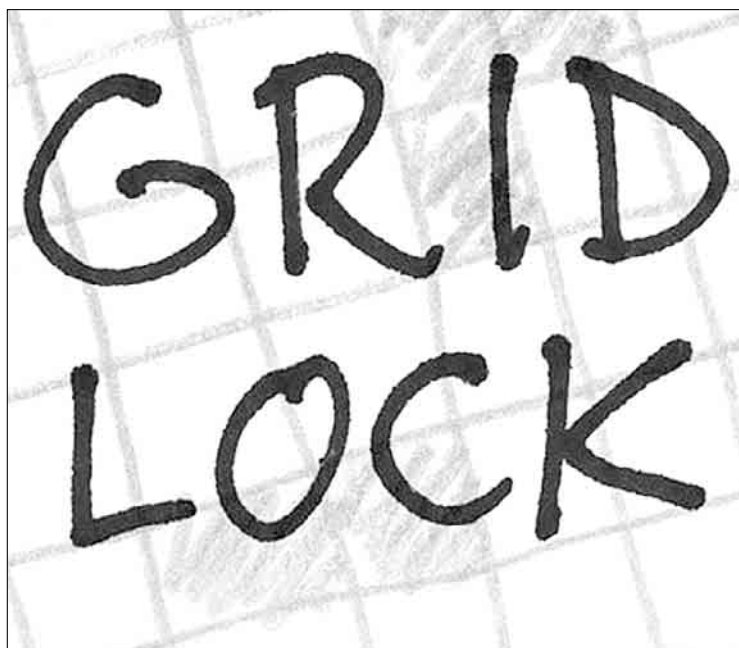

Some more than others. ... Henry Hook is pretty much the ne plus ultra of people who have almost an adversarial relationship with the solver.

Gaffney

You've targeted niche publications with theme puzzles. It's appalling that The New York Times pays $135 per daily puzzle, less than Tabbies magazine.

I don't make puzzles for The New York Times anymore. I haven't written one for them in six years, maybe. But it bothers me. And I would be very happy if this book shamed the management of The New York Times into paying more.

COURTESY THUNDER'S MOVIE PRESS

AXLE TO GRIND: Ms. Elfman can bring Gaffney's money to his reading Thursday.

It's hilarious when you unload on a deadbeat skating-magazine editor: "Lois Elfman, if you're out there, you still owe me $175, you bitch." I hope she reads that. That was a time when I really could've used the 175 bucks. ... Where else am I gonna sell a figure-skating crossword?

Will crossword-building eventually get outsourced to machines?

No. The crossword constructor job will never go out of business, just because two of the three parts humans only can do, which is the clues and coming up with themes. And even that third part, that computers are doing better and better, of weaving the grid themselves — you still need a human who knows what they're doing to really tweak that at a high level.

"We sit around thinking of ways to fool people and waste their time and annoy them."

You also play chess, similarly under attack from machines.

You can buy a program for a couple of hundred bucks that plays chess at the level of or better than most grand masters, but people still have chess tournaments. That fascinates me. I guess they still have running races, even though cars exist. People still want to see what humans can do. GLENN DIXON

Metal's Technical Support

Shadows Fall merges thrash, death metal and some mad skillz

MUSIC | Shadows Fall will headline the 9:30 Club this Thursday as part of the third annual Strhess — yes, Strhess — Tour.

For those unfamiliar with the Massachusetts-based quintet, the band combines elements of hardcore, Swedish death metal and '80s thrash metal to form a hard-rock hybrid. In the early 2000s, as once-popular rap metal acts like Limp Bizkit struggled to maintain their fan base, Shadows Fall's highly technical style gained the acceptance of the metal masses.

"A few years ago, the big bands on Ozzfest all had major label contracts and popular radio singles," said Shadows Fall vocalist Brian Fair. "But as indie bands like us and a few others, who had built their reputations through touring, started making the bill, fans reacted positively and the heavy metal scene started to change".

NICE OF YOU TO DROP IN: Metal band Shadows Fall is doing precious few live dates.

Fans of the quintet won't want to miss Thursday night's show — the Shads have not played since last summer and their countrywide touring plans in support of their latest studio offering, "Fallout From the War," are limited to the Strhess Tour and a handful of one-off dates.

"Our busy schedule only allows us to do one quick tour here in the States before we start working on the next album, so we're going to play some songs we've never done before," explained Fair. "We want to make sure that everyone, including ourselves, has a great time at each show." GREGORY RE

Hot Pink

A former pop tart with ambitions confounds and delights her fans

MUSIC | Of the many singers who emerged out of the late-'90s teen-pop confetti explosion, Pink remains one of the smartest and most unpredictable of the lot.

After the success of her 2000 debut, "Can't Take Me Home," she could easily have continued playing the kick-boxing, blue-eyed soul ingénue. But instead of doling out more R&B pop tunes like "Most Girls" and "There You Go," she reinvented herself as a punk-rock dynamo who could still rule the dance floor with her ubiquitous hit, "Get the Party Started," from 2001's "Missundaztood."

Although her 2003 disc, "Try This," found her extending her efforts to be a feisty songwriter, seemingly intent on reclaiming rock for all the bratty skateboarders in suburban America, it didn't reap the commercial rewards she'd hoped for. But Pink didn't fade into oblivion, as the title of her new disc indicates. "I'm Not Dead" is as gutsy and capricious as ever.

She could have continued to play the kick-boxing ingénue.

She lambasts less talents celebrities such as Paris Hilton and Nicole Richie on the new album's lead single,

"Stupid Girls," for all their egregious materialism and vapid come-ons, then plays up the Material Girl role on "Cuz I Can," doling out devilish lines like: "I can fit your whole house in my swimming pool." Talk about bling braggadocio.

It's clear that Pink wants to show how emotionally and psychology complex she is. She's needy and brokenhearted on "Who Knew" and "The One That Got Away," then screaming for personal space on the dazzling, passive-aggressive romp, "Leave Me Alone (I'm Lonely)." "Conversations With My 13-Year-Old Self" is one of those reflective, self-consoling tunes that we've come to expect from fearless, sensitive and tormented artists.

The disc even has that now-obligatory political cut, "Mr. President," featuring the Indigo Girls. Even though it makes no direct references to Hurricane Katrina (which has spawned many badly written protest songs), she gives Dubya the middle finger with the backhanded compliment, "You've come a long way, from whiskey and cocaine!"

To witness how all of these different impulses unfold this Sunday at the 9:30 Club will be interesting to say the least.

Not only will her band have to constantly shift from grinding guitar-rock to lighter-flickering power ballads to bubbly dance music, if Pink shows her artistic range, she's likely to exhaust any critics who want to pigeonhole her.

Mission: Successful

Mission of Burma's second act is now longer than its first

MUSIC | The '00s have seen plenty of unexpectedly great art-punk reunions. Gang of Four's original lineup had the best live show of 2005. In 2000, Wire righteously waved its "Pink Flag." But both bands were looking back, performing the late-'70s material that had won them cred.

Mission of Burma was one act nobody expected to return. The music was so loud it damaged guitarist Roger Miller's hearing. Nobody was ready to quit, but Miller simply couldn't go on. As bassist Clint Conley said recently, "We never really broke up, we just sort of stopped." In 1983, Burma went on hiatus.

It eventually became possible to protect Miller while permitting the band the eccentric fury that had won it a devoted cult. Burma started performing again in 2002.

NEVER MIND MYANMAR: Burma's dark and fierce, yet jittery art-punk recalls that of its peers such as the Mekons, Pere Ubu and Gang of Four. The band's new record, "The Obliterati," is its most aggressive yet and ranks with its early '80s material.

It soon played its first D.C. date in nearly two decades.

Rounded out by original drummer Peter Prescott and new soundman/tape manipulator Bob Weston, the quartet dubbed that round of shows the "Inexplicable" tour. What was even more unlikely is that in 2004 and again this year, they would drop platters that play as though Burma never went away. "We were writing new songs from the beginning of our 'relapse' or whatever you want to call it," Conley said.

With "ONoffON" and now "The Obliterati," Burma has recorded twice as many studio LPs this time around as during its original run. Conley noted, "It's dawned on us that we're now officially together longer in the second iteration than in the first."

It will be a stronger Burma than ever that headlines the Black Cat Saturday. Not beholden to a back catalog that includes such epochal, influential songs as "That's When I Reach for My Revolver" and "This Is Not a Photograph," Conley & Co. will blast through new favorites such as "2wice," "Let Yourself Go" and "Donna Sumeria."

Always political, though usually obliquely so, Burma — which naturally refuses to recognize the government of Myanmar ("Bad people over there," Conley said) — will likely unleash its first novelty caricature: "Nancy Reagan's Head"

Three administrations on, Conley is still haunted: "It's bizarre! The circumference, the mass. It's not right." GLENN DIXON

A Great Nation Closes

After this weekend, the Southeast club landmark is no more

OUT & ABOUT | This weekend marks the end of an era as Nation, Washington, D.C.'s largest dance club, closes its doors for good in the name of urban development.

Plans for the new Nationals baseball stadium call for the club and surrounding buildings to be turned into office buildings — a development co-owner Jim Boyle said wasn't necessarily what he wanted to see happen to the venerable club. Boyle says the mood among staffers is a little sad right now, but added that he and his team are "proud to have been involved with one of the best clubs on the East Coast and in the country."

In its decade of existence, Nation has been revamped and renamed Nation co-owner Jim Boyle claims the venerable club is down but not out.

— it was first the Capital Ballroom when it opened in 1995. And as Boyle noted, Nation has "provided [Washingtonians] some major artists as far as concerts, all the top DJs in the world, some long-running parties, and the customers have had a great time." And in keeping with the club's persona, Boyle and crew have decided to close Nation with a sonic boom.

Thursday through Saturday, promoters for Alchemy/A.L.I.A.S., Cübik and VelvetNation respectively will all host closing parties. And "because concerts are so much of what they do at Nation," said Boyle, the band Mindless Self Indulgence will be on hand Monday for one final night of uninhibited dancing.

And for those club-goers who say they'll never dance the same again without Nation, don't throw out the old Converse just yet; Boyle said he's actively seeking a site where a new Nation might soon rise.

Drive-By Truckers explain the yin-yang of the American South

MUSIC | On his band's 2001 critical breakthrough, "Southern Rock Opera," Patterson Hood of the Drive-By Truckers spins a singsong yarn about the three great Alabama icons: football coach Bear Bryant, Gov. George Wallace and Lynyrd Skynyrd singer Ronnie Van Zandt. In it he explains how segregationist Wallace could receive 90 percent of his state's black vote, why liberal Canuck Neil Young would be a pallbearer at Van Zandt's funeral, and how Bear Bryant forced Hood to discover punk rock. "Such is the duality of the Southern Thing," Hood draws.

And such is the duality of the Drive-By Truckers. "My dad's a musician," says Hood. "When punk happened I thought it was the greatest thing in the world and he thought it was awful." Understandable, perhaps, since the elder Hood played bass for Aretha Franklin, Wilson Pickett and Willie Nelson as part of the legendary Muscle Shoals rhythm section. "Of course, now he's played on the last two Frank Black records."

THEY, TOO, HAVE THREE GUITARISTS: The Truckers' "Southern Rock Opera" is a double CD based on the history of Skynyrd.

Duality remains a theme on the Athens, Georgia, quintet's latest album, "A Blessing and a Curse." The Truckers may borrow from Skynyrd's blend of boogie and crunch. But you won't see a lot of Confederate flags waving at the 9:30 Club on Saturday.

"I think all of us listen to more hip-hop than we do Southern Rock," says Hood. (Check their titles "The Dirty South" and "Gangstabilly," with lyrics lifted straight from Chuck D. and L.L. as well, hell.) "There's been a long tradition of great music from the South," Hood says, citing My Morning Jacket, OutKast, REM and and Gnarl's Barkley. "It's still happening. But after Skynyrd's plane crash, the bands who tried to carry on that tradition became so right-wing and crappy, there's a part of me that cringes whenever we get tagged as 'Southern Rock.'"

Truly, the Truckers' genius lies in making Southern Rock okay for the rest of us. To wit: Van Zandt was actually from Florida. But he authored "Sweet Home Alabama," according to Hood's tune, in an attempt to imagine his father's point of view. Neil Young — admonished by name in Van Zandt's song — counted himself a fan.

Such is the duality of the Southern Thing. BOB MASSEY

THE ROOTS ARE ON FIRE: Foresaking pre-recorded samples, the Roots gained great renown as hip-hop's premier live band.

The Future of Hip-Hop

The Roots, Talib Kweli and the Pharcyde preview LPs at Fur

MUSIC | Think of this concert as spring training for hip-hop. The Roots, Talib Kweli and the Pharcyde all have new CDs on the horizon, yet all the discs are at least two to three months away from hitting the stores. So before the regular season starts, these veteran acts are getting in shape with a big package tour.

Actually, the Roots are always on the road: It's a never-ending season for hip-hop's premier band. The group's new CD, "Game Theory," hits August 29, and on the Def Jam Web site drummer Ahmir "Questlove" Thompson described it as "very mature, very serious, very dark." Rapper Black Thought (Tariq Trotter) does one song about the murder of his parents; another is a tribute to revered hip-hop producer J Dilla, who died in February. Other tunes address war, government monitoring and other societal topics. It's sadness you can shake your booty to.

Like the Roots, Talib Kweli has a new label. "Eardrum" is slated for September on his own Blacksmith Music, and it features guest appearances by the Underground Kingz, Norah Jones, Sizzla and Jean Grae, featuring productions by Kanye West, Just Blaze, Hi-Tek and Madlib.

Less has leaked about the Pharcyde's fall release, "Eclectic Compassion," but the remaining original members, Bootie Brown and Imani, will look to recapture some of the buzz it generated with its first two classic albums in the early '90s. Finding your swing again — that's what spring training is all about. CHRISTOPHER PORTER

Hip-Hopper's Delight

FESTIVALS | The curtains are up at the Kennedy Center and Studio Theatre for the fifth annual D.C. Hip-Hop Theater Festival. Well, officially, the curtains have been up since Monday, but there is still theater aplenty before the performers take their final bows on Saturday night.

In the past five years, the festival — a co-production of the D.C. Commission on the Arts and Humanities and the New York Theater Festival — has become a formidable force in the theater world and a welcomed stepping-stone for aspiring local artists with an affinity for the staged arts. And all the works presented in this weeklong theatrical feast are not only free but also marinated in a hip-hop flavor that seeks to invigorate traditional thespian cravings.

On Thursday, the festival showcases a couple of its main events. "D.C. Shorts: Ten Minute Hip-Hop

SHE COULD BE BIGGER THAN BORF: As part of the Fifth Annual D.C. Hip-Hop Theater Fest, the D.C. Urban Arts Academy will offer DJing demonstrations, hip-hop dance classes and graffiti workshops on Saturday from noon to 4 p.m.

Plays From D.C. Playwrights" is an evening of staged readings at Studio Theatre at 7 p.m. Terah Jackson, author of "Hidden Pages" — described by its press release as a cross between Dr. Dre and William Shakespeare — says his short "will speak to anybody from the D.C. area, born and raised," as the graffiti street-prophet at the center of his tale is none other than D.C.'s own elusive tagger Cool Disco Dan.

Subsequently — and also at Studio — playwright Papi Kymone Freeman explores the issue of over-incarceration, which he calls "the new slavery," in the play "Prison Poetry." It was inspired, Freeman said, by "one prison story told to me too many" and follows the lives of three men from different generations sharing a jail cell.

Friday boasts DJs and spoken-word artists galore, while Saturday offers a series of hip-hop arts workshops taught by Mazi A. E. Mutafa's Words, Beats & Life Inc., as well as a final hoorah at Avenue Nightclub before the festival goes dark until next year. DARONA WILLIAMS (EXPRESS)

The Springfield Sound?

Vetiver's Andy Cabic talks about bringing back groovy music

MUSIC | San Francisco-based Vetiver is proof that new music doesn't have to sound new to sound good. Largely the work of singer/songwriter/Springfield, Va., native Andy Cabic, Vetiver — playing the Warehouse Next Door on Sunday — further developed its laid-back acoustic vibe on its second album, "To Find Me Gone." Cabic talked with Express about his return to D.C. and more.

Do you mind being labeled "folk rock" or "country rock?"

I have a hard time describing what I do. ... There's elements of all that, but I don't look upon it as one certain category.

Are you a throwback?

I listen to a lot of older music.

Vetiver look and sound rather more like a San Francisco band than a D.C. band.

... The production values and craft of songwriting from decades ago was originally inspiring to me.

Some of your songs are quite mesmerizing. Was that a goal?

Definitely. The songs that sound that way, I tried to arrange that way, whether through repetition or subtly building drums or linking repetitive vocals in chant.

Do your songs take time to appreciate?

I always seem to get delayed reactions. My songs are really simple, but they have a lot of detail. People enjoy them at first and say, "Oh yeah, I know this. I know what's going on here." But then it kind of creeps up on you later and you can see how it connects together.

How have your experiences in D.C. affected your music?

How I set up my songs and stuff — it's just different. ... I've moved on, but it's a trip when I think about coming back here. I'm really looking forward to the show in D.C. and seeing a lot of old friends.

Welcome, Now Leave

Owen Wilson plays a stubborn houseguest in 'You, Me & Dupree'

HANGING AROUND | Fresh from his blockbuster hit "Wedding Crashers," Owen Wilson portrays yet another lovable mischief-maker in "You, Me & Dupree."

Wilson's Dupree is free-spirited bachelor who thinks that serving as best man at his friend's wedding entitles him to certain privileges, such as staying at the groom's new place after he finds himself out of a job and homeless. Initially sympathetic to Dupree's misfortune and tolerant of his uncouth habits and adolescent behavior, Molly (Kate Hudson) and Carl (Matt Dillon) soon grow weary of Dupree's destructive presence. But how do you tell your best friend to get lost?

For Wilson, playing Dupree was a lot of fun. It also was a character with whom he could relate.

"My older brother [Andrew] says that [brother] Luke and I wrecked his first marriage because we were always staying at his house."

Wilson also knows firsthand what it's like to host a guest that overstays his welcome. Luke stayed at Owen's place for more than a year, even though he owned a home less than a mile away.

PUT YOUR FEET UP: Kate Hudson and Matt Dillon try to be polite with exasperating roomie Dupree, played by Owen Wilson.

He also played host for an extended time to actor and fellow Texan Woody Harrelson.

"I remember I was leaving the house one day and Woody said, 'Are you going to take your car?'

and I said, 'Yes,' and he said, 'Well, what am I going to do?' and I said, 'I don't know. What are you going to do?'"

"Dupree" co-star Hudson said she found it tough to keep a straight face around Wilson during filming, and Dillon admired his on-screen foil's ability to ad-lib.

Lately, Wilson has been riding high as the voice of race car Lightning McQueen in the hit Disney-Pixar family film "Cars."

"It's definitely made me popular with my nephew," he said.

Wilson next co-stars with Luke again in the comedy "The Wendell Baker Story," in which they play rival attendants at a nursing home. ANGELA DAWSON (ENTERTAINMENT NEWS WIRE)

9 Waist Deep

Not a great movie but an interesting combination of 'hood flick and meditation on trust and love—thug love, romantic love and, most important, parent-child love.

10 The Break-Up

As squabbling exes, Jennifer Aniston's uptight Brooke may be right, but Vince Vaughn's Gary is funny. And in comedy, funny wins.

AFI celebrates "100 Years ... 100 Thrills," with a program of shockers, creepfests and freakouts. Number Two on the Institute's list is Steven Spielberg's pitch-perfect 1975 monster movie "Jaws," screening Friday and Saturday at 7 and 9:30 p.m. Also at AFI Silver this month are the animated films "The Muppet Movie" (Thu., 7 p.m.), "Mirromask" (Fri., 11:30 a.m.) and "The Great Muppet Caper" (Sat. & Sun., 12:20 p.m.), part of Muppets, Masks, and Mazes: The Jim Henson Film Legacy series.

Henri Rousseau: Jungles in Paris

A new film about a 19th-century artist brings together photographs, archival material and ephemera to explore the parks, green areas and gardens that fired Rousseau's brain and inspired him to paint dangerous, seductive and lush tropical paradise out of gray Parisian material. "Henri Rousseau: Jungles in Paris" is being shown as part of the National Gallery's exhibition of the same name.

EVERYBODY OUT: "Jaws" taught a generation to be afraid of the water.

→ National Gallery of Art, 600 Constitution Ave. NW; opens Sun., through Sept. 29, free; 202-842-6799. (Archives-Navy Memorial)

'Initial D'

Taiwanese pop star Jay Chou is at the center of the action in the thriller-filled comedy "Initial D," an early, more authentic draft of "Tokyo Drift," from "Infernal Affairs" duo Andrew Lau and Alan Mak. The film is part of his "Made in Hong Kong" series.

→ Freer Gallery, 12th Street & Independence Avenue SW; Fri., 7 p.m., Sun., 2 p.m., free with reservations; 202-633-4880. (Smithsonian)

LIVE ROCK | LOWERY'S COUNTRY ROADS

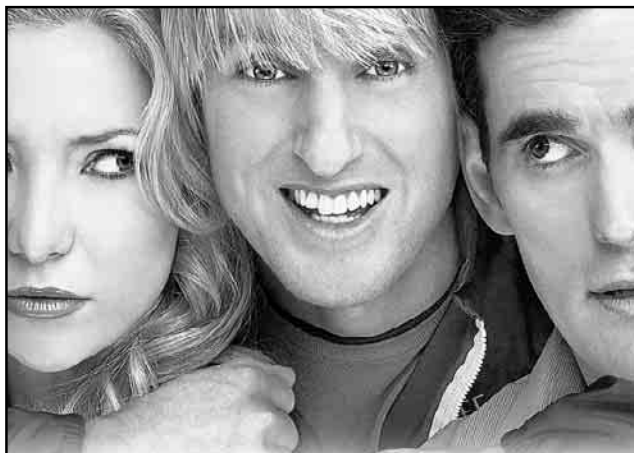

JONATHAN SEGEL

SALTY YET CRISP: Cracker scored a ubiquitous modern-rock hit in 1992 with the song "Low." Fronted by Camper Van Beethoven singer (and Richmond resident) David Lowery, Cracker plays alt-country and gentle, organ-drenched tunes in addition to the "Low"-style rockers. Local country enthusiasts Revival open at the 9:30 Club on Friday.

Wrong Stuff in The Right Wing

→ JOHN DEAN, the man most famous for informing Richard Nixon that there was a cancer on his presidency, continues to scrutinize the tone and direction of the conservative movement in general and the Republican party in particular in his new book, "Conservatives Without Conscience." As a scandal-scarred Washington hand, Dean may have axes to grind, but he makes a distressing case that the increasing stranglehold of social conservatives and neocons on this country's right wing is helping to legitimize the current administration's authoritarian impulses. What Is Beet Carpaccio to The Charms of Tater Tots?

On Wednesday, Barton Seaver, the executive chef at Cafe Saint-Ex, unveiled the new menu at sibling restaurant and down-the-street neighbor Bar Pilar. As had been anticipated, Bar Pilar's much-beloved tater tots are officially dead, replaced with an offering of small plates that will change daily. MICHAEL GRASS (EXPRESS)

HOT PIES

Live the 'Pizza Lifestyle' In the Heart of Rosslyn

The stretch of Wilson Boulevard in Rosslyn near the sunken Safeway may not be as exotic as Miami Beach, Buenos Aires, Sao Paulo or Venice's Lido, but Italy-based international pizza chain Piola seems to be poised to open an Arlington County location there some time this summer. Hiring notices are posted on its windows, which are covered in Piola signage. Otherwise, the space, plunked in a drab office building, isn't all that exciting.

Piola is more than just pizza. It bills itself as having perfected the art of the pizzeria. The franchise publishes its own "pizza lifestyle" magazine, a somewhat perplexing concept. Since the new Piola pizzeria will be steps from Cafe Asia, expect it to be popular with those who work in Rosslyn and the Arlington-bound after-work weekday crowd. (MG)

UPCOMING, MAYBE

Palena Leaving Cleveland Park ... or Not, Who Knows?

Rumors are flying about Palena's possible relocation, and even the experts disagree on just what's going on with the lauded restaurant. Scuttlebutt — and Tuesday's dining chat with Todd Kliman of Washingtonian magazine — has it that the Cleveland Park foodie mecca is leaving its Connecticut Avenue location and setting up shop in the old Blaine Mansion (at Massachusetts Avenue and 20th Street NW). But The Post's Tom Sietsema countered Kliman's claims in Wednesday's washingtonpost.com dining chat, saying that nothing has been finalized. Stay tuned. (MG)

Last night my partner and I were treated to a wonderful dining experience at Komi. The food was fabulous, and the service was gracious and attentive. What a gem!

Where can one find a real

Southern-style hush puppy — not frozen or from a bag — in D.C. or environs?

Kitchens that know their hush puppies: Majestic Cafe in Old Town, which serves 'em with remoulade; Jackie's in Silver Spring, where the snack is on the brunch menu; and Vidalia downtown Washington. Indigo Landing in Alexandria, which I'm reviewing in this week's Sunday Magazine, serves hush puppies made with ... foie gras!

Where is the best place for dim sum in the area?

While our dim sum is no match for the best in, say, Vancouver or San Francisco, I think the service at Hollywood East Cafe on the Boulevard in Wheaton is pretty good, as is the dim sum at Fortune in Falls Church.

A Love Triangle With a Paris Touch

➔ AMONG THE MANY improbabilities in Stanley Donen's 1954 romantic comedy "Sabrina," perhaps the most jarring is the casting of Humphrey Bogart as sober man of business and dutiful son Linus Larrabee. Or maybe it's Audrey Hepburn's early scenes as frumpy Sabrina Fairchild, stupidly in love with playboy David Larrabee (William Holden). But despite the burden of making this bizarre love triangle convincing, director Donen pulls off the whole mess of misplaced hearts and Paris makeovers with panache. It screens on Friday at 4:30 p.m. and Sunday at 2:20 p.m. as part of Our Fair Lady: The Films of Audrey Hepburn at AFI Silver, 8633 Colesville Road, Silver Spring; 301-495-6700. (Silver Spring)

LECTURES | BLAST FROM THE PAST

COURTESY NYC

ASK AN EXPERT: Through Friday, Montgomery College's Germantown campus offers "actor-scholars" delivering speeches in the personae of historical figures, including Leonardo Da Vinci and Coco Chanel. After that, they'll take questions — first in character, then as themselves. The free events will be preceded by performances of period music by local musicians.
